UNIVERSITY OF BRIDGEPORT CAMPUS WEEKLY

Booters Edged In Tourney; Basketball Team Debuts

The University sports scene will undergo a change in cast, but hopefully not in its role, when the Purple Knights gridders and the Knight Soccer team give the basketball and wrestling teams their winning scripts this week. Both the Soccer and Football teams presented acts that will be hard to follow.

The Knight booters reached the quarter-finals of the NCAA soccer tournament and finished their season with a fine 9-4 record including tourney play, while the Knight gridders compiled a 7-3 record, the best in 19 years of UB Football, via a 14-0 season ending victory over Montclair State.

After topping Colgate University 3-1 in first-round play in the NCAA tourney, the Knight booters suffered a heartbreaking 1-0 loss to Long Island University last Saturday.

The lone L.I.U. goal came in the third period of the quarter-final contest and is one which both teams will remember for a long time to come.

The freak-type tally was credited to L.I.U. fullback Ronnie Jabusch and was ironically, the first of his college career.

Jabusch collected his goal when his straight shot from 20-yards out deflected off another player into the left-hand corner of the nets.

There was some question about who actually touched the ball after Jabusch's shot. The official scorer ruled, however, it had bounced off a UB defender and wasn't guided by another L.I.U. player.

It was the first time this season that the Knight booters were shut out and all four losses were by one goal, including a 2-1 loss to the same L.I.U. team.

The Knights attack was severely handicapped through much of the contest by the absence of All-America John Verfaillie, the individual standout of UB's 3-1 first round win over Colgate.

Head soccer coach Joe Bean lauded his charges for their outstanding performance in spite of the disappointing outcome of the game.

"The loss was a very big disappointment because we felt we had everything going according to game plan. We thought we could have won the ballgame and it was unfortunate that we lost John Verfaillie in the second period — it was the turning point of the game," Bean said.

"The entire team gave an outstanding effort, especially Ron Goddard, Ken Kline, Jack Gray, Larry Lerner and Tom Cikigil, who make up our defensive line," he said.

Bean in looking back over the tourney noted that the losses during the season were marked by the same unusual bounces and many Knight shots hitting the goal posts as in the L.I.U. contest.

"It's very possible we were just inches away from going to the finals. Of our four losses, all would have been wins that were otherwise decided by cases of the ball not taking the right bounce," Bean said.

"Next year our team must be as hungry for the entire season as they were for the tournament, this is the difference between a quarter-finalist and a National Champion," he added.

UB Debate Team Downed By New York University

Victory, a triumphant companion on the Debate Team's first night ride back to the University was conspicuously absent as the team returned from its debate with New York University, Washington Square, three weeks ago. The NYU team won by a score of 63 to 57.

The bus had pulled away from that afternoon again leaving little time for Barbara Decter and James Klaber, the members of the debate team, to research the topic "Should contributions made to political organizations be tax exempt?"

Charles Evans, director of the debate team, sat in the front seat of the bus, just across from the debaters. Although more serious than on the first trip, a low laugh and a short giggle could be heard as they discussed the ideas and problems of the upcoming debate.

In New York, the bus driver brought the bus to a stop. Barbara Decter, a senior elementary education major, and James Klaber, a junior political science major, disappeared into the CBS Broadcasting Studios.

"College Counterpoint" began again with the University of Bridgeport to stage right. In the center were the judges: Seymour Friedman, Assistant Director, Manhattan District, of the Internal Revenue Service; Dr. Fulton Ross, Instructor of Speech Education, Hunter College; and Gene Hebert, Assistant Editor of Editorials for C.B.S.

The specific issue, which is not known by the debaters until it is read at the beginning of each round, was presented. "Would such tax exemptions generate greater political interest among the general public?" Round one ended with the score: University of Bridgeport 20, New York University 27.

On the second issue, "Is there a need to develop new sources of revenue?" Barbara, now used to the spot lights and rotating cameras, and Jim, in a three-piece gray suit, picked up momentum and the score for Round 2 ended: Bridgeport 24, and New York University 23.

The third round, or the summary, ended in a tie, 13 to 13. Friedman, an expert on tax affairs, expressed the opinion that the debate was actually won by the University, and another admitted that he was confused. However, "the decision of the judges is final."

IFPC Constitution Battle Still Raging

By JOSEPH LICHTER

For those individuals who were under the impression that the football season was over at the University it may come as a shock to learn that it isn't or that is, it wasn't until the beginning of this week.

If that seems confusing then the account of the "football game" between I.F.P.C. and Student Council may appear completely unintelligible.

The game started when I.F.P.C. attempted to kick its Constitution off but Student Council refused to receive. John Harm, Student Council president, noted an absence of a rule that he thought should have been in the constitution.

The rule concerned the level of the quality point ratio for the chairman of I.F.P.C. Harm said that according to a precedent set last year the I.F.P.C. chairman should have a 2.2 QPR at the time that he takes the chair.

I.F.P.C. President, Doug Berns, objected to Harm's rule. A vote was taken in Council on the measure and by a narrow margin, Berns and I.F.P.C. lost yardage.

Berns tried to overrule Harm but to no avail. Play resumed.

Harm had the ball throughout the game. The Constitution was resubmitted to Council but Harm would not allow it to come to the floor without the 2.2 QPR provision.

According to precedent, if the I.F.P.C. constitution is not accepted by Council then the organization is not recognized by Council. Since the I.F.P.C. conducts and oversees pledging activities, without I.F.P.C. recognition pledging would not be recognized.

At the end of the first half, Berns decided that pledging was more important than the two-tenths of a point and hence he conceded.

In an amendment to the Constitution that was circulated to fraternity presidents this week the 2.2 clause was inserted and the presidents are expected to approve the amendment.

Harm stated that the Constitution would be acceptable if the 2.2 clause was added and he further stated that if that is the case pledging will continue.

Before the game finished Berns tried to get on the scoreboard with a long distance field goal. He said that after pledging is over I.F.P.C. will try to amend their constitution again. He said that they will make an attempt to push an amendment through Council that will again reduce the QPR requirement for the Chairman to a 2.0.

Harm commented that it did not seem likely that I.F.P.C. will succeed in reducing the QPR.

Berns said that I.F.P.C. will succeed. If not in Council, he will take it to the student body in the form of a referendum.

The game is over. But why was it played in the first place?

Harm was playing for precedent and a variety of other reasons. He said that it is statistically proven that when an individual becomes chairman of an organization, his grades tend to go down. Hence, he devotes more time to studying and less time to the organization's functions, therefore the organization suffers.

Berns says that two-tenths of a point doesn't make much of a difference and "It is the individual's responsibility." He said that if a person thinks he can handle the job, he should be given the opportunity.

Even with the slow-motion camera and the instant replay it doesn't look like this game is clear. In a letter from Berns to all fraternity and sorority presidents, Berns said, "This entire situation is frustrating; it is never fun to be forced to accept something which you don't agree with, but pledging is more important at this time. We can try to deal with Student Council later. All I can say is thank you President Harm."

It looks like the two teams will meet again but it is getting a little too cold for football.

Health Insurance: Who Is Covered?

Do you know how well you are insured as a student of the University? Commuters and dormitory students both share the facilities of the University Health Center as well as a broad student medical expense insurance plan covering all students under the $50 General University Fee payment for a full year of accident and sickness coverage.

The Students' Accident and Sickness Medical Expense Insurance provides coverage for this school year from Aug. 30, 1966 to Aug. 30, 1967 for "all accidents (including sports) whether sustained at school or while traveling between school and home or wherever the student may be," plus a "maximum of $750 for each sickness," according to the policy.

The University General Fee of $50 also entitles all students carrying 12 credits or more to emergency aid and general treatment in the University clinic. Mrs. Lane, head nurse at the Health Center, carefully distinguished the clinic from the infirmary as separate facilities of the Health Center. The clinic is open to all students under the General University Fee; the infirmary is available only for resident students required to pay a $15 infirmary fee which is optional for students in off-campus housing.

This $15 infirmary fee is a "fixed expense," Dr. Wolff said. He compared it to insurance. If a student does not use the facilities of the infirmary division of the Health Center it is not returned or credited to the students account.

The University Health Center is well-staffed. It provides 24 hour coverage with doctors in attendance between the hours of 9 and 12 a.m. daily, Monday through Friday.

Mrs. Lane said that the Health Center makes use of the urban hospitals as well as all specialized facilities in the city when necessary.

The Health Center is scheduled to be moved to the present site of the Rehabilitation Center on Park Av. However, the Rehabilitation Center has not been able to find another place to go.

Pressure Or Precedent?

To the University's Greek community, the battle over the acceptance of the Interfraternity Presidents' Council constitution must seem more like a rematch of the battle between Andocles and the lion—without any divine intervention.

Student Council, acting entirely on "precedent", refused to accept IFPC's constitution because of its "minimal academic requirements." Council felt that the president of IFPC should be required to maintain a quality point ratio of 2.2 instead of the 2.0 required for the presidents of student organizations by Councils' constitution and the Administration.

Council argues that once a student becomes president of a campus organization, his QPR almost invariably declines because of the heavy responsibilities of such offices. If a student has only a 2.0 QPR at the time of his election to office, Council contends, he is quite likely to end up in academic difficulty before his term is completed.

IFPC is a legislative forum and voice of the Greek community, consisting of the presidents of campus sororities and fraternities. By dictating that the president of IFPC must have a 2.2 QPR, Council is indirectly dictating that the presidents of all Greek organizations must also meet this requirement to become eligible for the IFPC presidency.

Carrying this point a bit further, what will stop Council from demanding that the presidents of all student organizations must also have a 2.2 QPR, or that Council must approve the election of these officers to begin with?

In a letter sent to all Greeks last week, IFPC president Doug Bernes recommended that they agree to amend their constitution to include the 2.2 requirement. The reason for this is very simple—until Council accepts IFPC's constitution it will not become a de jure organization, and will not be officially recognized by Council or the University.

The letter also stated, "We can try to deal with Student Council later. In the meantime, we do what they want or no pledging."

Formal pledging began at midnight last Sunday. However, until council accepts IFPC's constitution, pledging (and the Greek community) will not receive official recognition. This means an organization with some 800 members will have no official voice in student government.

We feel IFPC has given up this fight too easily. They should demand that Council amend its own constitution, rather than standing on precedent. Council has no right to set a requirement for one organization without making the same requirement apply to all other campus groups.

Obviously, Council, hiding behind what it called "precedent" is trying to pull a fast one on the student body again. If it is allowed to continue along this course, Council could eventually dictate not only the QPR requirements, but the entire format and policy structure of all student organizations.

We urge IFPC, and all other campus groups to demand that Council bring this issue before the student body in a referendum now.

TO THE EDITOR:

We find it necessary to criticize the Student Center Board for their lack of foresight in the planning of Winter Weekend. Having made several inquiries, the answers received have ranged from "Maybe Neil Sedaka," to "How the heck do I know." The only definite reply we received is that it will be Dec. 2. (As we type this letter, someone has just informed us that there may not be a Winter Weekend). No one seems to know what the entertainment will be, what the proper attire will be, when tickets will be available and what the program or events will be. How can anyone make plans for this event if the organization sponsoring it does not even know what's coming off?

TO THE EDITOR:

One of the major programs scheduled for the Student Council this year is to investigate the possibility of instituting a system for the evaluation of our faculty members. At present we are seeking information from various colleges and universities as to any methods that they have found to review their faculty.

The purpose of this evaluation is to be constructive in nature. I would appreciate any member of the student body or faculty interested in participating on this committee to leave their name at the Student Council office, room 202 in the Student Center. This evaluation will affect each

TO THE EDITOR:

Whatever happened to the teacher in the classroom? Where have the ideas gone that teachers are supposed to help students learn?

Too many professors are concerned with covering a set amount of chapters rather than helping the students understand. What is to be done with teachers who do not care?

There are too many practices existing in today's classrooms. Teachers are covering more and more concepts in less and less time. Many is the time a student will encounter a teacher who tries to trick him and test him on material that was never covered in class or assigned outside of class. No longer are teachers concerned with helping the student to advance himself. The trend seems to be that teachers are trying to fail the students rather than teach them.

Something must be done to re-establish the teaching-learning activities in the classroom. We must not let the present situation exist any longer.

I rest my case.

Withdrawal Procedure

Students wishing to withdraw from the University after this semester must initiate the following procedure on or before Jan. 13, 1967, said Vincent Bucci, Guidance Counselor of Student Personnel.

The student must first give notification to the Office of Student Personnel in Howland Hall on or before January 13, 1967. Then he must return his identi-cation card to the bursar by February 10, 1967. All financial obligations must also be fulfilled before withdrawal is completed.

Bucci also said that students who are in the two year program and plan to graduate in January because so many do remain, must go through this same procedure before their graduation in January.

This does not apply to the four year students who are graduating in January, however, he said. These students will receive their acceptance deposit refund after they have fulfilled their financial obligations to the University.

Math Institute Tool For State Teachers

The Math Institute of the University is being used as a tool to increase the professional competence and modernize the teaching techniques of mathematics teachers throughout the state, Dr. Wray G. Brady, chairman of the Math Department said.

Thirty-nine high school and junior high school teachers from Connecticut are enrolled in the mathematics institute at the University.

The institute is made possible through a $9,730 grant from the National Science foundation. The program includes modern algebra for the first semester, and linear algebra for the second semester.

Dr. Brady said that preferences were given to new teachers and teachers out of the profession for a time. Consideration was also given to the needs of the school in which the enrollee is teaching, he added.

'Fantasticks' Opens Wednesday Night In The Drama Center

There is no scenery — no props—no backdrop. There are a boy, a girl, two fathers. A tattered drape hangs across the platform announcing to the audience that is "The Fantasticks."

The overture begins, the actors walk onto the platform . . . the Department of Speech and Theater Arts and the University Players present "The Fantasticks", the whimsical off-Broadway hit that broke all records in New York just one month ago as it marked a 6½ year run.

The musical is breaking a few traditions at the University also. It is the first production that the drama department has worked closely in cooperation with another department of the University to present. The play is directed by Dr. Orville Larson, chairman of the drama department. Prof. Raymond Stewart of the music department is conducting musical scores and presentations including such familiar tunes as "Try to Remember" and "Much More".

The lead vocal role, Luisa, is played by Candy Brooke, a music and voice major. She made her singing debut at the age of eight and has been singing ever since.

Ron Jones, a dramatics major, is Matt, the boy lead. He has sung at various conventions in Atlantic City and traveled with a USO troupe in the New Jersey area.

Craig Sandquist plays the role of El Gallo, the narrator. He has had professional voice training and credits among his dramatic experiences roles in "Unsinkable Molly Brown", "South Pacific" and "Oliver". He is a junior majoring in music education.

The rest of the cast includes Frank Speiser, education major, as Hucklebee, Matt's father; Phil Levy, freshman history major as Bellamy, Luisa's father; Alan Poci, speech and drama major, Shakespearean actor, James Evans, theatrical arts major, Mortimer; and Joe Oligino as the Mute.

Tickets will go on sale today at the University Bookstore and at the box office of the drama center for performances on December 7 through the 11. Tickets will be sold at $2.

Tough Luck Men - There Is No Sexual Revolution

Where is the sexual revolution? Tough luck, men, there is none: Mademoiselle magazine columnists David Newman and Robert Benton have decided this after reading more than 4,000 letters from young women across the country. Their collective cry seems to be, "Keep your hands to yourself, Herb!"

The letters were sent in response to a questionnaire in Benton and Newman's "Man Talk" column in last April's issue of Mademoiselle and are detailed in the magazine's December issue. Benton and Newman's questions ranged from straight facts (How old are you? How much education have you had?) to "How do you generally get your men?" and "What are the big problems that you keep having with men?"

A little over half who replied were under 20; most of the rest between 20 and 25. Most were either students or had been at one time. The group was overwhelmingly single, although there were replies from a few hundred married ladies, at least half of whom wished they weren't.

Most of the girls complained about their boyfriend's preoccupation with sex. The consensus was that there is still an enormous gulf between young American women and men about simple biology. Benton and Newman comment, "Honestly, this was a revelation. We have all been hearing about the new sexual freedom sweeping America, about the new laxity in morals, about the swinging youth, et cetera. Well, we've just found out that it's baloney."

A big surprise answer came to the question "How do you generally meet your men?" Many replied, "I meet them through pickups." Apparently the pickup has acquired a veneer of acceptability. Many coeds thought it was quite proper to pick up fellows at college hangouts. Secretaries thought it proper to strike up conversations at bars. City girls flock to art museums for the cultured pickup; Californians nod a friendly hello to the cute boy in the sportscar at the stoplight. Then there's also the girl with the scientific method who wrote: "To meet men you must carry absolutely everything in your handbag — can opener, gum, stamps, change, penknife, et cetera. When someone interesting asks if anyone's got a something, there you are."

Benton and Newman gave the ladies a chance to dish out their own advice too. About half recommended "Be yourself." Many others added either "play it cool," "beware," or "stay feminine."

New Debarment Policy Instituted

A new program for student debarment is being initiated by the Office of Student Personnel, said Mrs. Lucille Cardozo, Administrative Assistant of Student Personnel.

Faculty members are to notify the Office of Student Personnel only when excessive absences occur and there is the possibility of debarment. Prior to this, said Mrs. Cardozo, the faculty was to notify Student Personnel of every absence, but this led to unnecessary paperwork and most often the situation was corrected before Student Personnel was contacted.

Excessive absences are still left to the discretion of the faculty member.

A mark of "X" is given to students debarred from class for excessive absences. The grade earned to date of debarment will be indicated by a small letter subscript.

Mrs. Cardozo warned that boys who are debarred from a class and drop below 12 credit hours are no longer considered full-time students. The faculty member is then notified of the situation but if he does not change his recommendation within 24 hours, the University is required by law to notify the draft board.

YAF Denies CPP Ties

The University chapter of the Young Americans For Freedom has denied any affiliations with the Patriotic Party of Connecticut, a new radical right wing party sponsored by the militant Minutemen organization.

Thomas Hart, chairman of the Conn. party stated in an interview on the campus radio station, WPKN, on Nov. 7 that the Patriotic Party "has members from approximately 30 cooperating organizations including the John Birch Society, the Young Americans For Freedom, the Constitutional Party in Pennsylvania, and the Constitutional Party in Florida."

"The Young Americans For Freedom does not and will not support or cooperate with the political arm of the Minutemen on a state or national level," David Keeler, president of the campus chapter of YAF said last week.

YAF issued a similar denial of a statement by Hart in the Bridgeport Post on August 10, 1966, Keeler noted.

as big as today's brand new ocean

Talk with on-campus Career Consultant from Newport News—world's largest shipbuilding company—involved with nuclear propulsion, aircraft carrier design, submarine building, oceanographic development, marine automation, all the challenging advances on today's brand new ocean. The New York TIMES calls this "the last earthbound frontier" with "profit possibilities as big as the sea."

Learn what our half-a-billion-dollar order backlog means to you in terms of high starting salary and years of career security with no lid on your future. With orders up $80,000,000 in five months, our need is urgent for imaginative men in all the disciplines listed here. Men who like tough challenges and individual responsibility.

Ask about opportunities for advanced degrees and research. We're next door to Virginia Associated Research Center with one of the world's largest synchrocyclotrons, where graduate engineers study high energy physics. We're across the harbor from Old Dominion College, offering graduate courses in Microwave Theory, Solid State Electronics, Nuclear Engineering. Nearby, too, is the Extension Division of the University of Virginia offering courses toward credits for masters degrees. And within easy driving is The Virginia Institute for Scientific Research, a world leader in solid state physics. Linked up with these opportunities, Newport News offers scholarships, tuition grants, advanced study and research leaves. Ask about them.

Get the facts on pleasant living and lower living costs here in the heart of Virginia's seaside vacationland with its superb beaches, golf, fishing, boating, hunting.
